

National School of Healthcare Science Work Based Training Provider Accreditation (STP in Reproductive Science)

The National School of Healthcare Science (NSHCS) has oversight of the Scientist Training Programme (STP). As part of their remit, they are responsible for ensuring the quality of the training offered in the workplace.

Leicester Fertility Centre now has gained approval as a training centre for the Scientist Training Programme (STP) in Reproductive Medicine. This accreditation is valid for 5 years.